Press Release

This year's Eastbourne Festival sees the second exhibition by 'Dis-location', a gallery with no fixed abode. This year the gallery focuses on the experience of the viewer. Display Only highlights the enjoyment that can be had from looking and interacting with artworks. It features art for art's sake, work that can be viewed but not bought.

Dis-location 2011 will showcase the works of its largest and perhaps most diverse group of artist to date. Exhibiting new works from East Sussex based artists, Amanda Champness, Robbie Jenkins, Abigail MaryRose Clark, Elaine Cameron, Neil Childs, Christine Chester, Judith Alder and Leighton Holter. Four of the eight artists' lectures at Sussex Downs College, the remaining four are former students of the college's art department.

Dis-location 2011 will include Fine Art Installation, Projections, Textiles, Sculpture, Collage and Book Works.

This year's location: thanks to the generosity of Keith Meech, Managing Director of Plumbers Mate LTD we will be taking over the two floors of 186 Seaside Road, Eastbourne. This former Cinema, Bingo Hall and Bathroom Showroom provides Dis-location with its largest and perhaps most unusual venue to date. We are excited to bring such a large exhibition to a somewhat overlooked part of Eastbourne.

Private View: Saturday 14th May 7.30pm-9.30pm
 Sunday 15th May 11am-3pm
